Four couples went out to local New Year's Eve events. Some went to a friend's place and the couple who went the furthest away joined in with the nearest city's fireworks extravaganza.

Fortunately, the weather was mild and traffic wasn't too bad, so everyone got to and from their events safely. Determine the full name of each couple and the event they went to for New Year's Eve.

1. George, whose last name wasn't Brown, and his wife didn't go to the party hosted by the local tavern. Bill's last name wasn't Grant. Holly's husband wasn't Tom.
2. The couple who went to the local tavern party was the couple whose last name was Guest.
3. Mike and his wife, Brenda, whose last name wasn't Bradley, didn't go into the city to see the fireworks.
4. Mary, whose last name wasn't Guest, enjoyed the town's Christmas tree burning celebration.
5. Bill's wife wasn't Mary. Tom and his wife went to their friend's party.
6. Nancy Brown didn't go to the city fireworks celebration.
