The new year marks the start of the new show season for the small family-run company, Shutter Bugs. Extremely talented, the four sisters were all very capable professional photographers and shared an avid enjoyment of capturing life through the lenses of their cameras. While they did a lot of freelance work, they also sold many of their best photographs of people, animals, and landscapes as vendors in various festivals, art exhibits, and other such events around the west coast and mid-west states. Each sister had a few favorite events that they attended each year, and then the rest of the events that the Shutter Bugs attended, they split between them. Fortunately, their favorite events were all during different months, in different cities, and even put on by different promoting companies, so they never had scheduling conflicts. Determine the full name of each sister (all four sisters were married and hence carried their husbands' last names) and the city (where each event was held), month (each event was held in), and promoting company (that organized each event) of each sister's favorite event.

1. Barbara, whose last name wasn't West, didn't go to the show in February. Teresa South didn't go to Reno.
2. Mrs. North loved the show in Albuquerque. The show organized by Fanciful Festivals wasn't attended by Madeline.
3. The show in Reno wasn't held in April. Susan didn't go to the show held in Los Angeles.
4. The show organized by Sunrise Expos was held in March. Madeline didn't go to the show in Portland.
5. The four shows, from earliest to latest, can be represented by the show organized by Karma Shows, the show held in Los Angeles, the show attended by Teresa, and the show attended by Mrs. East.
6. The show organized by Masterson Exhibits wasn't held in May.
