

Take sixteen matchsticks and arrange them into five squares as shown in the illustration.

The object is to move two matchsticks to new positions to get exactly four identical squares instead of five.

The solution is shown in the illustration.