

A father has three square lots for his four children. He wants to give each child a piece of land to plant vegetables. How can he divide these lots so each child gets a plot the same size and shape?

The solution is shown in the illustration.